SANTA'S OFFICIAL FESTIVE FACT-CHECKER

✖ THE CLAIM

I'm not saying Santa's beard is fake...
...but I am saying I just watched him peel it off like a satsuma. 🍷👴

✓✓ OUR VERDICT

We found zero evidence that Santa uses – or ever has used – a false beard

Multiple independent sources at the North Pole confirmed that Santa's beard is all natural. Photographs and archival material show consistent beard length and luxurious density across decades, with no observable signs of adhesive, Velcro, elastic, or prosthetic fixtures.

The social post provides no verifiable evidence to support its scurrilous claim.

EXPOSED: Santa got wedged in a chimney during trials, now he's refusing descents – elves to handle ALL drops. Funny how the MSM aren't reporting this 🙄🙄

✓✓ OUR VERDICT

Claims that Santa refused chimney descents are not supported by any evidence

Multiple workshop staff and North Pole Logistics personnel confirmed that Santa continues to carry out all chimney entries himself. In fact, last year's delivery run recorded the fastest chimney-descent times on record, with no interruptions, delays or incidents of any kind.

No logs support the claim he became "wedged", or that elves were instructed to replace him.

Elf source confirms Santa fell off his sleigh after too many sherries last year – and is now HIMSELF on the naughty list 😬

✓✓ OUR VERDICT

Assertions that Santa fell from the sleigh are not supported by Yuletide logs

North Pole sources – including senior reporters at Lapland Times and high-ranking Elf & Safety officials – all confirmed that Santa completed his flight smoothly and without incident.

Official records show steady control throughout, with no reports of slips, stumbles or “sherry-related mishaps”, and no indication of any Naughty List entry linked to the run.
